DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

1. Claims 3-9, 11-13, and 15-18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Kredo (United States Patent 6,714,637), in view of Chen (United States Patent Application Publication 2002/0094076).

Regarding claim 3, Kredo and Chen disclose everything claim as applied (see claim 5), in addition Kredo discloses sending the audio file to the telephony device, as disclosed at column 2, line 24 through column 4, line 26 and exhibited in figures 1-3.

Regarding claim 4, Kredo and Chen disclose everything claimed as applied above (see claim 3), in addition, Kredo inherently encodes the audio file using a compression algorithm prior to sending the audio file to the telephony device.

Regarding claim 5, Kredo discloses a customer programmable caller ID alerting indicator. In addition, Kredo discloses a method to provide for caller identification using telephony ring signals comprising: a) receiving, at an application server in a communications network, a telephone number of an expected caller; b) receiving identification of an audio file to play as the telephony ring signal at a telephony device for an incoming call originating from the expected caller; c) creating indicia associating the telephone number of the expected caller with the audio file; and d) sending the indicia associating the telephone number of the expected caller with the audio file from the application server to the telephony device, wherein the telephony device play the audio file as the telephony ring signal upon receiving the incoming call from the expected caller and wherein the indicia associating the telephone number of the expected caller with the audio file includes a location of the audio file, as disclosed at column 2, line 24 through column 4, line 26 and exhibited in figures 1-3, however, Kredo fails to disclose playing the audio file independently of whether the telephony device for the incoming call is involved in an ongoing call. However, the examiner maintains that it was well known in the art to provide playing the audio file independently of whether the telephony device for the incoming call is involved in an ongoing call, as taught by Chen.

In a similar field of endeavor Chen discloses telephone caller identification control. In addition, Chen discloses playing the audio file independently of whether the telephony device for the incoming call is involved in an ongoing call, as disclosed in the abstract, paragraph [0061] through paragraph [0075] and exhibited in figure 7.

Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify Kredo by specifically providing playing the audio file independently of whether the telephony device for the incoming call is involved in an ongoing call, as taught by Chen, for the purpose of relieving the telephone user of having to walk to a device to visually interpret the ID data.

Regarding claim 6, Kredo and Chen disclose everything claimed as applied above (see claim 5), in addition, Kredo discloses a) receiving second telephone number of a second expected caller; and b) retrieving identification of a second audio file to play as the telephony ring signal for an incoming call originating from the second expected caller. wherein the creating step further creates the indicia to associate the second telephone number of the second expected caller with the second audio file, as disclosed at column 2, line 24 through column 4, line 26 and exhibited in figures 1-3.

Regarding claim 7, Kredo and Chen disclose everything claimed as applied above (see claim 5), in addition, Kredo discloses wherein the indicia associating the telephone number of the expected caller with the audio file comprises a file readable by the telephony device, as disclosed at column 2, line 24 through column 4, line 26 and exhibited in figures 1-3.

Regarding claims 8, 9, 11-13, and 15-18, Kredo discloses everything claimed as disclosed above, in addition, Kredo discloses WWW and VOIP in column 4, line 31 through column 5, line 60, therefore claims 8, 9, 11-13, and 15-18 are interpreted and thus rejected for the reason set forth above.

Response to Arguments

2. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 3-9, 11-13, and 15-18 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Conclusion

3. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
